broadcasting

Broadcasting in Asia and the Pacific
Edited by John A. Lent

This is the most up-to-date reference available on the radio, television, and wired services of 44 countries from Afghanistan to the South Pacific islands. It includes systematic analyses of the structure, ownership, programming, facilities, and financing, of broadcasting in these countries by thirty-five internationally known specialists. It also covers the development of these media from the 1920s and 30s to the present.
440 pp. September ISBN 0-87722-068-9 $27.50

Broadcasting and Democracy in France
Ruth Thomas

This book explores the structure and financing of the system before and after the reforms of 1974, the relationship between the system, the state, and commercial interests, as well as such issues as information, citizen participation, government interference, and competition from private stations in neighboring countries.
218 pp. ISBN 0-87722-111-1 $15.00

Broadcasting and Democracy in West Germany
Arthur Williams

This book covers all aspects of West German broadcasting since World War II: development, present operations, funding, problems resulting from regional control, and the need for strong constitutional foundations to safeguard the public's rights.
